Market Square

The walk begins in the town centre. On 20 August 1942 the Germans liquidated the Grybów ghetto, where they had confined around 2,000 people: Jews from Grybów, from nearby villages, and from Krynica-Zdrój and Muszyna.

Jewish cemetery and the memorial with 1,774 names

The memorial bears the names of 1,774 victims and was unveiled on 3 November 2019. When work began, a forest stood over the mass grave and nothing pointed to the tragedy. Experts from the Rabbinical Commission for Cemeteries located the site; around 120 people shot in 1942 lie here. A path leads from the memorial to the mass graves.
